MONUMENTS

Commander Ernesto Guevara Sculptural Complex

Ave. Desfiles and Circunvalación, Santa Clara.

Tel: (5342) 205878

(Tuesday - Sunday) 8:00 am. - 4:30 pm

It was inaugurated on December 28th, 1988 on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of Santa Clara battle. In the Memorial erected in his honor, Santa Clara jealously guards the remains of the Heroic Guerilla fighter and those of several internationalist fighters of his guerilla in Bolivia.

The Sculptural Complex is made up of the Square, the Tribune, the Museum, the Memorial and the Las Villas Front Mausoleum. The mausoleum was inaugurated on October 8th, 2009, to honor and guard the remains of the fighters of Las Villas Front.

The tribune is made up of five elements, the most fundamental is Che's bronze sculpture, which stands on a 16-meter high pedestal (10 of them visible and stone-covered, and 6 meters of green marble on the ground floor). The statue is 6.80 meters high and weighs 20 tons.

Monument to Che with a child

Highway to Camajuani between F y Tomás Ruiz, Santa Clara.

Among the most beautiful sculptures of Commander Ernesto Guevara, and one of the most visited in Santa Clara, we find that of Che with a child in his arms, located at the entrance to the building occupied by the Provincial Party Committee in Villa Clara, former guerrilla command during the Battle of Santa Clara. The real-size sculpture is the work of the Basque sculptor Casto Solano Marroyo and it is a recognition of the human values and honesty of Che.

Loma del Capiro Monument

Loma del Capiro, Capiro neighborhood. Santa Clara

This natural elevation, declared a National Monument in 1990, was a strategic point for the definitive liberation of Santa Clara, which led to the victory of the Rebel Army. At the highest point, about 176.5 meters, there is a sculpture by José Delarra conceived with the union of different calibers of firearms directed towards the sky and joined by a ring to reaffirm the defense of the country. From there, the best views of the city are offered.

It includes four original wagons, photos, plans, sketches of the guerrilla positions and an old bulldozer of transcendent importance in the battle.

This fountain has an ornamental function and was placed in 1925 during the foundation of the park. The original fountain was destroyed in 1969 and 20 years later, a cast bronze replica was made by the artist José Delarra, a copy of admirable fidelity to the original.

Just half an hour away from Santa Clara, the eighth village founded by the Spaniards in 1515 seems frozen in time. San Juan de los Remedios, over 500 years old, treasures a very well-preserved historical center, which has its starting point at José Martí square. Wide halls in the form of corridors, wrought iron grilles and large eaves supported by wooden corbels, which protect walkers from the intensity of the sun, are abundant in its architecture.

TRADITION

Parrandas Remedianas

San Juan de los Remedios is popularly known for its incomparable Parrandas, a legendary cultural event that takes place every December 24th since 1820.

The neighborhoods of Carmen and San Salvador, with the emblems of El Gavilán (Sparrowhawk) and El Gallo (Rooster), respectively, will keep secret their plans for their floats and lanterns until the opening day of the parties. Their neighbors then become fraternal contenders and the flags of both teams are raised in front of the cortege and accompanying the congas.

Every year, this event attracts hundreds of Cubans and foreigners because of the colorfulness of their floats, the unmistakable sound of trumpets and the sweeping pace of the changüí, which along the fireworks adorn a city that does not sleep.

Similar events started to take place throughout the central region of the country, which encouraged UNESCO to officially recognize them as Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity on November 2018.

It is located on the northern plain of Villa Clara and it is part of a wide stretch of flat land between Jumagua mountains and the sea. It owes its name to Sagua la Grande river, which runs through its fields crossing the city.

The official foundation of the city occurred on December 8th, 1812. From then on, the population experienced a rapid growth and development. It acquired the status of industrial city during the Republic, and in 1958 it was considered "the second industrial city" after Havana. Today the city retains the neoclassical spirit of its urban planning and architecture, with few modern changes to its historic center. For these reasons, the historic center of Sagua la Grande was declared a National Monument on December 6th, 2011.

The Triumph Bridge

The passage of goods and people between one side and the other of the city was not a simple task in its first century of existence. For this reason, boats were used from different docks along the river. The iron bridge was built in 1905 after the destruction of the old wooden bridge, due to the frequent flooding of Sagua river. Currently, given its advanced state of deterioration, its restoration is included in the development plans of a city for which The Triumph Bridge is its cultural symbol.
